VOL. XIX.---183. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1919. TWO CENTS

SUIT MAY DETERMINE LARGE EXPENDITURES OF COUNTY MONEY

Liability as to Condition of Certain Roads to Be Determined

OFFICIALS FACE NEW CONDITION

Speaking of the suit brought by a California man against the county for damages to a truck on the road leading from Grandville to Coal Centre last winter, Commissioner John O. Watson said on Wednesday that if the suit should go against the county it would mean a large additional expenditure that would have to be met by taxation.

The merits of this case in question, if it ever comes to trial, will or ought to show the responsibility of the county for any damages that might result to any vehicle while it is traveling over the highways of the county over which the commissioners have jurisdiction.

Whether the accident in question, damages for which havebeen filed in a suit, was due to negligence on the part of the county or the owner of thetruck, may be shown when the issue comes into court for adjudication. If the county loses it will mean, said Mr. Watson, that the county commissioners will have to prepare for the erection of at least 150 miles of fencing along county improved roads.

Another feature, and one which is going to cause considerable concern to the fiscal officers of the county, is the replacement or repair of bridges to take the places of those which are now unable to stand up under the heavy traffic imposed by modern trucks. Mr. Watson related an incident of one owner of such a truck, with a rated capacity of three tons, loaded with about three and one half tons of coal, breaking through a bridge while on the way to make a delivery. He expects a claim to be presented to the county, and it may end in a suit at law, and if the county should lose this case it would open another avenue that would require large sums of money, in order to replace present structures with modern bridges.

Big motor trucks have entirely changed the road situation not only in Washington, but in every other county in the state. Roads prepared to stand up under ordinary travel give way completely when put to the test of the heavy motor trucks, hundreds of which are now in daily operation on the roads of this county. Moreover, in many instances county roads which were improved within the past few years have been entirely destroyed by reason of this traffic, and which will require thousands of dollars to repair. Road repairing is an expensive proposition, as can be seen by a reference to the annual report of the Controller. One short piece of roadway out of Washington, a little over a mile in length, repaired during the past y ear, cost the county over $25,000. If the commissioners must make similar repairs in other parts of the county where they are badly needed it will cost l arge sums of money, and which must be provided by taxation.

Taxpapers in the county are facing different conditions today from those that existed but a few years ago, but which must be met by modern and improved structures when it becomes necessary to build either bridges or roads.

SAY COAL SUPPLY IS NOW ABNORMAL

Domestic coal is in such supply in Pittsburg at present that it can bear all the additional burden which may come through the gas shortage. Reports submitted to the fuel administration on Wednesday by 68 retail dealers in the district show that the supply is actually abnormal now. These figures, when compiled by the deputy fuel administrator of the Pittsburg district, showed that coal operators are shipping orders in full to each of the 68 dealers. Thirty of the 68 reported that their customers now have stocks equal to their normal peace-time holdings at this period of the winter and 38 reported that their customers have stocked up to the limit.

There are now 7,900 tons of coal in the bins of the retail yards of the district. On this date of last year there was just 650 tons. Only three of the 68 dealers reported any pressing call for coal and these three said the urgent orders were small.

Preparing For Coming Term of Criminal Court

Although it is four weeks yet until the convening of the February term of criminal court the district attorney's office is getting everything in shape for a busy term. There has been no criminal court since last August. The influenza epidemic caused a continuance of the November term until in December, and in December, due to the persistence of the influenza epidemic, the November term was abandoned entirely. It is thought there will be no change in regular sitting of the February term of crimnal court.

There are many cases on the docket for presentation to the grand jury, which will meet the first Monday of February. Indications are that the number will run over 150. The entering of p leas by defendants from week to week tends to reduce the criminal trial list. There is a number of homicide cases listed for the coming term.

The February term of common pleas follows criminal court. It has been almost a year since a sitting of the common pleas court. No spring term was held last year. There is no August term and the November term was continued and later abandoned.

WORKHOUSE COMMITTEE MEETS IN PITTSBURG

The commitee of county commissioners, representing Westmoreland, Washington, Fayette, Indiana, Clearfield, Cambria, Somerset and Bedford counties, met in Pittsburg on Wednesday and discussed the project of a joint workhouse and industrial farm for the southwest section of Pennsylvania. Thirteen sites were considered and a slection will be made later.

The committee elected the following officers:—George W. Deeds, of Westmoreland, president; G. H. Wagner, Indiana, vice president; H. R. Campbell, Washington, secretary; and A. C. Bradford, treasurer.

BRINGS SUIT FOR LOSS OF CATTLE

John Birkhamer, residing in Union township, near the Mingo stop, has filed a suit against the Pittsburg Railways company, per receivers, in which he claims $2,000 damages. This action grows out of the killing of a number of valuable cattle of Mr. Birkhamer by a street car on October and November 16 last. Mr. Birkhamer is a dairyman and it is necessary for him to cross the tracks of the defendant company's lines in going from the pasture field to the barn. The crossing is made at a regular p lace provided for that purposee. In the suit the company is charged with negligence.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS AGAINST THE FLU

The Washington Board of Health is trying the same plan which was so successful in New York city at the time of the influenza there, that of closing up only meeting places and business houses which are operated without proper attention to ventilation and sanitary conditions. An inspection of all movie houses and theatres will bemade and any found not to be well ventilated and sanitary will be closed until such time as satisfactory improvements have been made. The influenza has not been stamped out of Washington, and the Health Board is taking every precaution against a recurrence of the epidemic. Crowds are to be avoided and all sneezing, coughing and spitting must be stopped. If necessary the nose and mouth must be covered, so that the germs of a cold or perhaps the influenza shall not be spread.

HAROLD DILL HAS BEEN DISCHARGED FROM SERVICE

Harold Dill, of Canonsburg, who prior to enlisting in the United States Army under the selective service, was assistant to Lawrence B. Frye, has been discharged and expects to return home on Sunday. He was a Sergeant in the Engineers and was in training at Camp Forrest.

Down in Pittsburg the police made several hundred informations against people who failed to clean their sidewalks from snow and ice. Wonder what would happen if a similar regulation were enforced in some of thetowns of the valley?

WASTE OF NATURAL GAS MUST CEASE SAYS FUEL ADMINISTRATION

Billions of Cubic Feet Annually Wasted by Bad Methods

NO MORE BIG OPEN LIGHTS

Because of the serious shortage of natural gas, the fuel administration on Wednesday issued orders designed to put an end to waste that has been estimated as equal to the consumption of 800,000,000,000 cubic feet a year. It is believed a large p art of this loss results from practices which readily may be done away with.

"It shall be deemed wasteful," says the order, "to burn natural gas by means of flambeaux or open light; to burn natural gas for the purpose of lighting, during daylight hours; to burn gas in inefficient appliances; to burn more natural gas than necessary for the purpose which it is intended to serve; or to consume natural gas in any other manner which is not reasonably efficient and economical. Licensees are hereby directed to report to the United States Fuel Administration all cases where consumers p ersist in the waste of gas."

This order will affect many open lights now burning in Washington county and of which numerous complaints have been made by natural gas companies. These open lights are usually in farms where leases are in force and in which there is a provision for free gas to the owner of the farm. This privilege, it is alleged, has been more or less abused with the flambeaux type of light which burns day and night, consuming great quantities of gas. By this new order all this waste will be eliminated and the supply for general use increased by several thousand cubic feet daily.

A COUNTY MEMORIAL

The Washington Observer, in its issue of the 8th inst. says that sentiment is crystallizing among the people for some kind of a memorial to our soldiers who took part in the great world war which will not only be permanent in character but which will be useful to the surviving soldiers and to all our citizens for all future time.

Under an act of assembly the county is authorized to build a memorial hall which will not only commemorate the services rendered by the boys of '17 and '18 but by the boys who went out in the other wars of the nation, from the Revoluntionary war down.

No doubt this question will receive considerable attention during the next year or so, and it is generally believed the people will approve of any action of the county commissioners looking toward the erection of such a memorial. It would be a fitting tribute to the men who served so gallantly during the past two years in the greatest war the world has ever known, as well as to those men who responded and entered the service in previous wars.

Not only will it be fitting for the county to have an appropriate memorial, but it is probable that every municipality in the county will take similar steps to have some local testimonial to the boys from their home communities. The people realize that every honor is due to the men who served in the armies of the United States during the mighty struggle just closed, and they will undoubtedly be ready to approve any reasonable suggestion which will commemorate the deeds of these soldiers who were ready to sacrifice all that our ideals might live. It will not be a financial hardship to any community or to the county to erect such a memorial and we may hopefully expect to see such an undertaking accomplished within the next few years.

Germany is getting a touch of the Bolshevism which she planted in Russia and which resulted in the fall of that once mighty empire. Riots in Berlin have in them potentially a menace to the welfare of future Germany, but the people of that country have no one to blame but themselves.

German militarists possibly never dreamed that their country would be the scene of riots in which different factions would take part. The first thing we know Germany will have to be saved from itself. And it is not improbable that allied forces will have to sent into Berlin to maintain order.

Too many American editors gullibly accepted the story that President Wilson demanded the sinking of the German fleet and wrote emphatic editorial disapproval only to learn—too late to withdraw their articles—that the President repudiated any such "foolish idea." The temptation of those hundreds of correspondents crowding France to seize upon wild rumors in the absence of facts is obvious, and the thing for sensible Americans to do is to read most skilled correspondence with re-

[illegible] are skeptical.

The [illegible] are at last learning from the [illegible] Peace Conference that the official German story of the cause of the war was utterly false. At the same time they are learning from evidence in trials in Switzerland reproduced in German papers that the worst charges of atrocities are true, including the employment of deadly bacilli cultures in enemy countries.

Coaxing Out the Whelks.

The [illegible] (Dutchtown artisans) is [illegible] by the Galloway [illegible] [illegible] the building [illegible] [illegible] which they [illegible] [illegible] as shell [illegible]. After selling their [illegible] the owner [illegible] were left were placed in a [illegible], and four [illegible] of the whelks [illegible] [illegible] in a short time the [illegible] [illegible] were crowding for [illegible] of their shells towards the fish heads. The extension gently extended their [illegible] upon the shell within, and when quickly grasped by the fisherman they could be pulled completely out without injury. The only other ways to [illegible] they can be extracted are by [illegible] or smashing the shells, but boiling lessens their value as bait, and the smashing process is too slow and inconvenient.

Noah's Ark a Good Model.

A good model for Noah's gopher-pine ark is [illegible] found in an effort to fit into the ark in "Numbers," "it would not be a difficult task," says that journal, "to pick out of Lloyd's Register many ships built within the last twenty years whose dimensions suggest a form closely resembling that of Noah's ark. According to the dimensions given in the Bible as translated in terms of modern measurement, the ark was 480 feet long, 80 feet wide, and 48 feet deep. Her tonnage was 11,413, and she had plenty of room for pairs of all the distinct species of animals that are classed by Buffon—244—and she could have accommodated a thousand persons and then had plenty of room for the storage of supplies."

Forget Self.

People who fall into the mistake of supposing that they themselves are the center of the universe are likely to receive a good many jolts. The more one feels his pulse and takes his temperature, the more bad feelings he is likely to have. The more absorbed in himself he becomes, the less satisfaction he finds in life. Forget yourself. Think about other people. Be interested in their fortunes. Sympathize with their trials. When we find a person whose whole nature is continually flowing out to others in a stream of kindness and sympathy and helpfulness, we have found one who is happy and contented.

Dreams That Come True.

We must dream true. Our dreams must be high and wonderful if our deeds are to be high and wonderful. We must follow the pattern that we evolve, and so cannot afford to dream meanly or idly. But we must hold fast to the vision. We must esteem nothing so high as honor; we must have faith and trust, courage and consecration; we must believe past all understanding, have faith past all comprehension; we must keep our feet steady and our eyes on the heights. We must not falter, come what may; we must not fail come what will—we must hold to our dreams, our "vision splendid" and make our dream come true.

Jewel Mystery Explained.

There are more large and beautiful diamonds in the world today than rubies and this has a curious explanation. Ages ago in India the Rajahs gave the privilege of mining to their subjects with the proviso that all gems above a certain size were to be sent to the Rajahs themselves. As a result, whenever a large stone was found it was broken by the miners, only an occasional one being sent to the Rajah to insure the continuation of the mining franchise. At that time jewels were cut and polished by rubbing them against each other.

If anyone is put into a position [illegible] to make a decision for [illegible] and [illegible] on and [illegible] you wrong. Time it takes self control not to be irritable under such circumstances for anyone who will [illegible] but it is my private belief that St. Peter has a special [illegible] for the crowd of people who overcame this temptation.

The complexion, digestion and almost the complete personality of women are dependent upon health. Woman's ills are her great enemy, as they cause bad complexion, dark circles under the eyes headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, and often totally unfit her for a companion. OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs.

This being true it is easy to see that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weaknesses and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is inclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill—with a swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidneys into action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons that cause premature old age. Nature—and science—intended as you continue to do—to attack. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. At the first sign that your kidneys are not working properly, go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. In sealed packages.

STATES ARE RATIFYING PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

Three more states, Idaho, Maine and Tennessee, on Wednesday, ratified the proposed federal prohibition amendment. This makes a total of twenty-two states that have ratified the amendment, leaving fourteen more to secure before the addition to the national constitution is ratified. Prominent prohibitionists expect that a sufficient number of states will have voted on the amendment by the latter part of this month to adopt the amendment.

WASHINGTON GIVEN LAST NAMES ON CASUALTY LIST

Complete lists of casualties among the American Expeditionary Forces have been sent to Washington, and 1,000 additional clerks have been put to work in the Adjutant General's office to get them out as speedily as possible.

COMMUNION SERVICES AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The quarterly communion services of the First Presbyterian church will be held next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Services preparatory to communion will be held by the pastor on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The "good authority" for the assertion that the President favored sinking the German fleet was doubtless a pro-German desirous of making trouble between the United States and England, for the only reason given for the President's alleged approval was that a division of the German ships would make England's navy bigger than ever.

Losses by Poisonous Weeds.

The loss of cattle and sheep due to poisonous weeds is very great. On the United States national forest ranges alone the loss in 1916 amounted to 6,048 cattle and 16,273 sheep besides a number of horses, goats, and other animals.

Trouble Ahead.

Mrs. Smythe—"Yes, Nora, I have to have my husband kiss me after he comes from the barber's. I detest the odor of that preparation on his mustache." Maid—"Do you? I rather like it, ma'am."

The Difference.

Said the occasional observer: "There may be a lot of differences between the old-time wrath' feller and a crook, but one of 'em uses a pseudonym and the other just a plain alias."

Rich Man's Guide to Health.

The only rule for a rich man to be healthy is to exercise and abstinence—to live as if he were poor.—Sir William Temple.

Perhaps.

Lucky is the man who marries a widow whose first husband was mean to her.—Chicago Evening Post.

Masonry in the Revolution.

During the American Revolution Masonic lodges were found in many of the English regiments in America, and a number of these existed in the Continental Army. There is a record of ten regularly constituted, acting under warrants and attached to the Continental regiments. It is claimed that General Lafayette was made a Mason at Valley Forge during the American Revolution, but R. F. Gould states in his history of Masonry that Lafayette was raised by the American Union lodge at Norristown, N. J. It was in the American Union lodge that the first resolutions were passed urging the election of a general grand master for the United States.

Telephoning in Japan.

The editor of the Japan Times says the telephone service in Japan is utterly bad. He wonders "what Job would have done had he lived in Tokyo and wanted to telephone to the specialist on boils." He concludes with the following incident: "A lady in Karuizawa called up her house in Tokyo, left by the next train, got the call and talked to herself in Karuizawa six hours after she arrived in Tokyo. That's not a joke. It's the solemn truth."—From the East and West News.

Friendship's Opportunity.

Many fine and splendid people at times try the good nature and good will of their very best friends. It may be that they are wrestling with some wearisome problem or endeavoring to bear up under some heavy burden and for the time being appear to be anything but their own natural selves. But instead of accusing them of unkindness or of taking offense at their attitude their true friends overlook their unnaturalness realizing that they will not remain so for long.

Jackson's Masonic Record Lost.

General Jackson was a noted Mason of the War of 1812, and it is claimed that he received his Masonry in an army lodge. As a matter of fact, no absolute record has ever been found of when and where Andrew Jackson was made a Mason. He afterward became grand master of the Grand Lodge of Tennessee. It is believed that the records of a lodge in Tennessee which were burned years ago would show it.

Stinging Criticism.

Said the facetious feller, "These old time school teachers may have had some funny ideas about teachin', but you gotta give 'em credit for knowin' that a good substantial ruler, when rightly applied to a stupid student would make him smart."

Teach Children Correct Speech.

After all the best place to carry on a campaign for better speech is right in the home with the little circle that draws close about the dining room table or settles down around the fireplace table it makes no difference what the scene of the circle which in the evening gathers about the hearth. For it is the speech which we hear about us at home that clings to us through life.—Exchange.

Doing Right.

Everything on earth has its price, and sooner or later we pay for all that we have. When we complain that doing right takes so much toil of effort, sacrifice, and the loss of what we call "success," we have only to look about us to see that evil-doing is more costly still. Its demands may come in on the installment plan, but they will be all the more exorbitant because of that.

Felt His Importance.

Herbert was asked to hand the tools to his father, who was under the car trying to repair it. For this his father praised him, telling him he had been of great assistance. When they reached home and explained to his mother why they were late Herbert promptly added, "Yes and if there hadn't been two of us men along we might not be here yet."

Much Good in Kind Words.

Kind words do not cost much. They never blister the tongue or lips. Though they do not cost much, yet they accomplish much. They make other people good natured. They also produce their own image on men's souls, and a beautiful image it is.—Blaise Pascal.

Pine Leaf Paper.

It has been estimated that if the immense waste were eliminated, the daily output of the long-leaf pine industry would be 4,000 tons of paper, 3,600 tons of rosin, 360,000 gallons of turpentine, and 600,000 gallons of ethyl.

Reputation and Character.

Reputation is what men think you are, character is what you are. Both are important, but character is indispensable to success. Without character you are not likely to have a good reputation—very long.

Meanness Hard to Overcome.

Some men's meanness consists of their stinginess with their means. When they give up their meanness they will be willing to give up more of their means. Such men, however, are pretty hard to convert.

Chinese [illegible] Is China's.

Importance of the Past.

[illegible] as masters of [illegible] a trap for our [illegible] we are [illegible] what we can do at this [illegible] it depends not only upon [illegible] upon [illegible] at the time be- [illegible] upon how we have made up [illegible] other times in [illegible] already gone by [illegible] out of control. The one [illegible] control us for good or evil.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Peace.

Peace is not an ideal at all; it is a state attendant upon the achievement of an ideal. The ideal itself is [illegible] and the honor [illegible] orderly and humane society. Given this, a durable peace follows primarily as a matter of course. Without this, there is no peace, only a truce of force until [illegible] revolt against it [illegible] peace.—N. M. Butler.

Wire's Long Stretch.

While S. B. Wharton of Boston was traveling in Switzerland his attention was called to the longest unsupported telegraph wire he had ever seen. It [illegible] the Lake of Wallenstadt being fastened to two iron [illegible] which are almost 8,000 feet apart. The line is made of steel and that section of it closest to the lake is more than 100 feet above the surface of the water.

We cannot [illegible] to dissipate the forces which war against us, but we can strengthen the forces which range themselves for us. We may not be able to change the conditions in which we must live, but we can train ourselves to be more brave and patient in their endurance; to keep our spirits above them, instead of in constant irritation against them.

The kauri gum district of New Zealand covers an area of approximately 914,000 acres. From kauri gum (named after the kauri pine) is made the high-grade varnishes used for furniture and for automobiles. Since the discovery of the gum by an American sea captain in 1853, New Zealand has produced kauri to the value of $92,000,000.

Controlling the Winds.

Controlling the winds is not yet an aviation triumph. If an aircraft starts from one point to another due east and there is a wind blowing of 15 miles an hour northeast, that will clearly have to be taken into consideration, and the course altered. TIME TO EXERCISE PATIENCE

Machinery of Business, at Present a Little Out of Order, Will Soon Be Running Smoothly.

Now is the time for all good Americans to be patient. It is true that the gloves are out of joint. Nothing is done the way it should be done, a glance of incomprehension is upon us, there has been a general slowing down in all branches of business and industrial life and a general lowering of the average of social efficiency. But it is the war, and we must have patience. Don't dare up and tell us that it takes ten minutes to get your "party" on the telephone, and then, like as not, it isn't your party at all. You ought to be thankful for any party.

And the elevators! And the clerks! They do not wait on you. You wait on the clerks, oh, so long. And it is going to be worse—for a while. But it is the war, and it is to be endured and we will have to put up with it. Business and industry are in the hands of recruits who have not been to training camp. But they are being trained as fast as possible, and by and by the recruits will be veterans, the cogs will get back in joint, things will be done the way they should be done, efficiency will again reign, business and industry will be speeded up and all will be well. In the meantime, while the captains of industry are training the rookies and doing their best to get the world running smoothly again, it is up to us to be more patient than we ever were before and smile all the while.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

STEP IN FOOD CONSERVATION

Minnesota Physician Has Discovered Method of Condensing Buttermilk and Retaining Nutritive Value.

In a recent interview with Dr. William Gresch of St. Paul, Minn., the fact was brought out that immense quantities of buttermilk have been wasted. Doctor Gresch is a member of the American Chemical society and for years has devoted much study to the milk [illegible]. As a result of his [illegible] has been discovered for condensing buttermilk into a solid [illegible] of the consistency of ice cream.

Although the nutritive value of the buttermilk is conserved in this product, and it is especially suitable for use in bread [illegible]. From eight to ten pounds of this material which, added to a barrel of flour produces a loaf of greatly [illegible] value. The milk protein helps to make up the deficiency in our present-day flour substitutes. The properties of the butterfat help to define the structure of the bread, besides producing an agreeable milk flavor; and the sugar of milk, aside from being of great food value, when combined with the dextrin in flour makes a fine brown crust at a comparatively low baking temperature. It saves fuel and prevents unnecessary loss of moisture.

I began bravely this different work of [illegible] German since 1914, by the [illegible] Then [illegible] a revolt against this very barbarism we are now [illegible], and long time I decided myself with the great good that could be accomplished by emphasizing this in such men as Schiller, Lessing and Goethe, as well as in some of the things from such moderns as Wildenbruch and Theodor Storm. But the newspapers made current events too vital for one to spend his hours shoring up the tottering structure of German popularity. Eighteenth century nobility was overcast by twentieth century inhumanity.—September Atlantic.

The most tragic incident of the summer is recorded in the town of North [illegible]. An elderly couple coming from [illegible] church saw two ghosts. The ghosts were flitting without apparent feet or legs through the gloaming and over the grass and through other things. They were dressed, of course, in the conventional white of [illegible] and ghostesses. The elderly couple legged it like mad. They fell into a cucumber patch and could not [illegible] themselves. The old gentleman was rather badly injured. They were rescued by the ghosts, who proved to be a couple of farmerettes in calico overalls.—Louisville Journal

Use of Sealing Wax.

[illegible] the sealing of [illegible] it is hoped [illegible] Parliament will be used. This name [illegible] was the [illegible] Vol. II., 1[illegible] the Salutation [illegible] the [illegible] In the [illegible] to the foregoing words. Black wax was generally used [illegible] of the military and [illegible] orders. Finally gummed envelopes [illegible] to replace sealing wax. The first envelopes, which [illegible] in England, date back to 1840.

Wearing for Joy.

[illegible] often recurring [illegible] "Wearing for joy" [illegible] the [illegible] with [illegible] hand while with the other she scratches her face till blood drops. The [illegible] of unfathomable complexity [illegible] Scratching in the West, is seen also at the meetings of the Anti-Saloon and Antidrama, or where the Daughters in friendly salute hug "like the grip of a bear."

Grand Finale.

Promoter (concluding a fervent oration)—"I tell you, sir, there's millions in my scheme! The stockholders will double their money in one year. Why, if I only had 20,000—" Conservative Capitalist (interrupting)—"Names on your sucker list?"—Buffalo Express.

The Extent.

"I understand your friend has got her husband tamed." "So she has, and to such an extent that she can now take money from his hand without his snapping at her."

Daily Thought.

[illegible] is miserable, doing or [illegible].

Morale—a New Word.

Napoleon once remarked that morale is to other factors in war as three to one. Morale is a new word to our speech, and I do not know that anyone has yet fully defined it, but there are certain factors which must enter into its composition. And one of these factors is the turning of men's minds away from the trenches to other thoughts and occupations. Without a change of mental atmosphere morbidness comes and homesickness and the feeling of being "fed up" on the war dulls the fine edge of enthusiasm.—Bruce Barton in Red Cross Magazine.
